From the District Deputy

Brethren the long nights of January are now behind us, the days are getting longer the sun is higher in the sky as we move along into this New Year with all of our hopes. Still fresh in our minds that this year will be more prosperous than the last, which is part of our nature as masons. Looking for a new beginning full of hope and excitement that life brings us as we think about the resolution that we made to start the year off and the ones that we have all ready broken.

I ask you to help the new mason to look at on resolution that they should strive to maintain. If you're going to promise something, don't begin to consider ways to get out of it. Promises are currency in the Masonic arena. If you spend a promise it is gone. You must ask yourself if you benefited someone with your expenditure. If not keep quiet and THINK before you speak. Don't promise with provisions if there are provisions and caveats, forget it, A promise is not negotiable. No one appreciates a half hearted, diluted, warm promise once a promise is accepted it matters little if on the promise day, if it is raining, snowing, or 101 degrees in the shade or if you don't feel good from the night before. Suffer the time and effort, and feel good about the fact you did not let anyone down feel good you did not let yourself down. This my brethren one of the first step in the development of ones Masonic Character Character is one friend that won't let you down.

A man had three good friends Money, Relations and Character. He thought Money was dynamic and powerful. He stuck close to money and devoted himself to any endeavour related to Money. Relations was his second, best friend not as important to him as Money but fun-loving and comfortable to have around nonetheless. He rarely spent as much time with Character as he did with the other two. Yet he had the utmost respect for Character and the maintained a strong and serious bond with one another.

One day he was called before a disciplinary review board. It came as quite a surprise that when he turned to his friend Money for help and Money was nowhere to be found. So he turned to Relations for help. And though Relations provided generous support and encouragement, it couldn't change his situation with the disciplinary board. Now he was worried and then as suddenly as everything had gone wrong for him, he felt a surge of hope. Without being asked Character had quietly jumped in. Character the friend that he had almost taken for granted proved to be his saving grace. For it was Character alone who was able to defend him and influence the board. From that moment on he realized that Character was the most valuable friend anyone could have.

This little story tells of Character as a friend I have seen many of our Brethren who have this friend that is why our district is so strong

Councils of Cryptic Masons form the centre body of the York Rite of Freemasonry. A Master Mason may join a Chapter of Royal Arch Masons and receive the four degrees of that organization. After which he may seek further knowledge in Freemasonry and join a Council of Cryptic Masons.

Ancient Cryptic Masonry centers on the story of the preservation, loss and recovery of the Word. The Word represents man's search for life's purpose and the nature of GOD. Symbolic Freemasonry, as in the Lodge, teaches of the loss of the Word and hope for its recovery. Royal Arch Masonry, as in the Chapter, teaches its recovery. Cryptic Masonry, as in the Council, completes this story by teaching of the Word's initial preservation.

LONELY EMBER STORY

Author Unknown

A member of a certain Lodge, who previously had been attending Meetings regularly, stopped going. After a few months, the Master decided to visit him. It was a chilly evening. The Master found the man at home alone, sitting before a blazing fire.

Guessing the reason for his Master's visit, the man welcomed him, led him to a big chair near the fireplace and waited. The Master made himself comfortable but said nothing. In the grave silence, he contemplated the play of the flames around the burning logs.

After some minutes, the Master took the fire tongs, carefully picked up a brightly burning ember and placed it to one side of the hearth all alone. Then he sat back in his chair, still silent. The host watched all this in quiet fascination. As the one lone ember's flame diminished, there was a momentary glow and then its fire was no more. Soon it was cold and "dead as a doornail." Not a word had been spoken since the initial greeting.

Just before the Master was ready to leave, he picked up the cold, dead ember and placed it back in the middle of the fire. Immediately it began to glow once more with the light and warmth of the burning coals around it. As the Master reached the door to leave, his host said, "Thank you so much for your visit and especially for the fiery masonic education. I shall be back in Lodge next Month."
